Notes

I am a Japanese actor based in Sydney who has been working casually in feature films and TV productions since 2004. In 2012 I was lucky enough to get a small part in the film Wolverine, which made my dream come true. Since that time I have become more serious about the craft of acting and tried to improve my skills while getting as much experience as possible. I am a versatile actor who feels comfortable doing either comedy or drama and particularly enjoys working in a team environment and making a great show.
